Editorial Comment

Last weekend in Sydney a new concept was launched in the Fast N Furious shows. This saw 4 shows run in one day, the first show was a 8:30 and the last finished at 4pm. Numbers were limited to 40 per group and awards were only given to Group 1 to 4 and Best Puppy in Group, then Best in Show 1 & 2 and Puppy in Show.

General Specials was pre judged as each group finished, so the actual judging only took a few minutes.

The shows opened online over four days with most groups selling out early as the fear of missing out overcame exhibitors.

I was one of the judges. From speaking to exhibitors on the day and watching social media afterwards I would say the majority of exhibitors definitely enjoyed the experience.

However, a balance in the type of events offered is essential and on the other end of the scale the Dogs SA Winter International is about to close.

This is four shows over four days, each day well over 1000 entries. With its relaxed carnival atmosphere and satellite specialty shows, the weekend has a lot to offer.

Also enjoying huge success currently is the new Sprint Dog, an event for basically any dog, where they race the clock, as well as scent work where the dogs instincts and ability are tested. Both of these events sell out within minutes of opening online.

There is definitely a market for different types of shows and trials and the right mix of them as we move forward is crucial for the survival of the hobby.

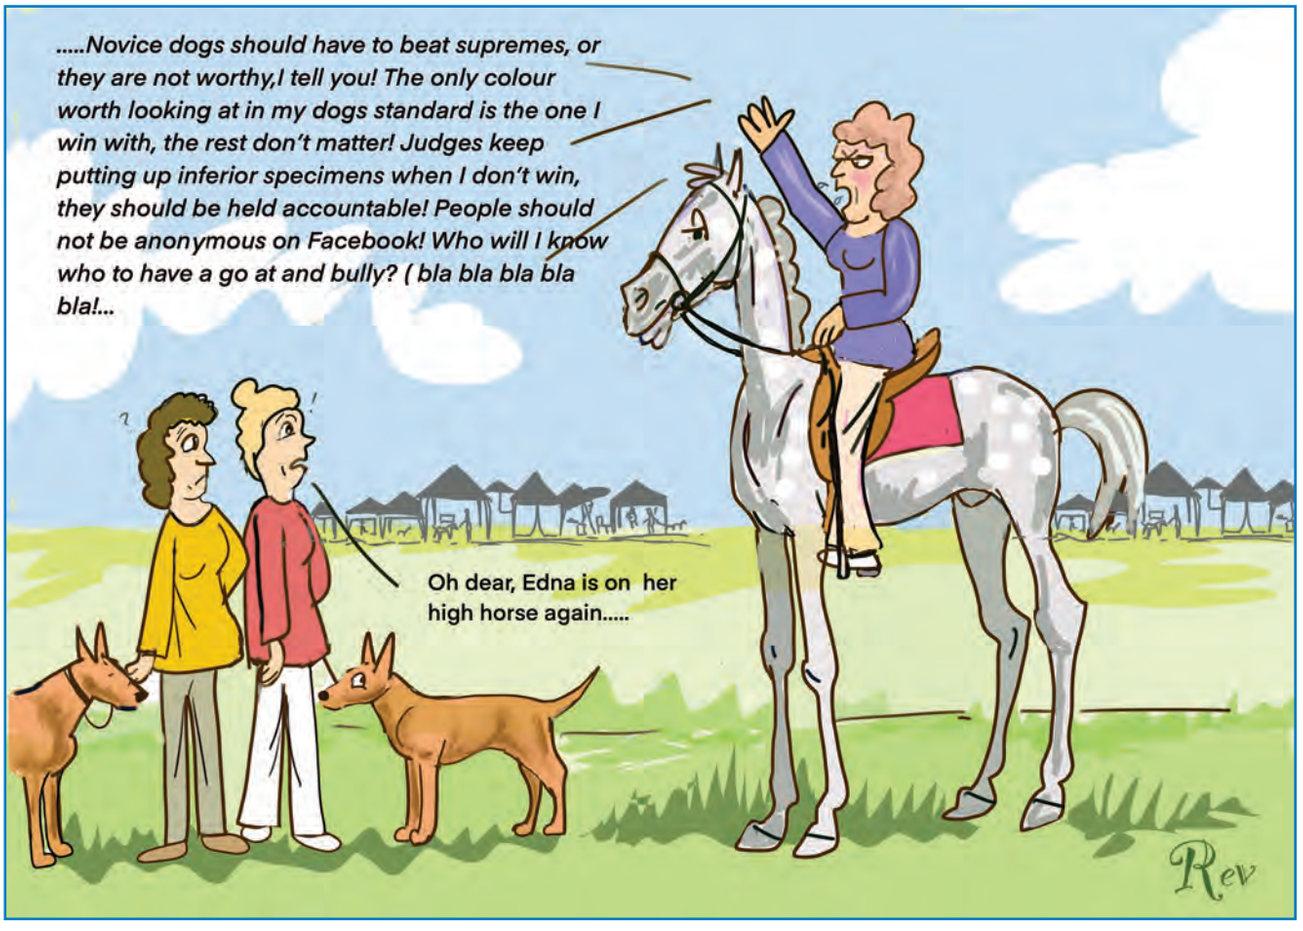

New things must be tried, some will succeed others will not, the importance here is trying them, so the ones that do work can be embraced and help us into the future.

UNDER THE CLOAK OF ANONYMITY

Let's talk about the trend that seems to be growing louder by the day, the use of anonymous posts in chat groups as a shield for people to say whatever they like without being held accountable.

• BY BRIGETTE BRYSON

What may have started as a tool to protect vulnerable voices or encourage honest feedback has quickly become a platform for gutless attacks, baseless accusations, and outright defamation. The idea of anonymity had merit in theory — allowing people to speak up in spaces where they might otherwise feel silenced. But in practice, it has become a playground for slander, rumour, and cruelty.

Behind the mask of "Anonymous," people now take swings they'd never dare in public. They post damaging, false claims and then vanish into the background while others are left reeling, trying to pick up the pieces of their reputation or their mental well being. And if you do dare to defend yourself or try to clarify a situation, you're suddenly branded as aggressive, dramatic, or unhelpful. The hypocrisy is suffocating. The very platforms that allow these anonymous posts have become complicit, brushing it off as community driven content while real people are harmed.

At some point, we have to say: enough. Accountability has to matter. We used to live in a time when, if someone had something to say, they said it and they stood by it. Disagreements happened, but people owned their words. Now, it's more like a game of knock and run. Someone delivers a blow, hides behind anonymity, and disappears while the target is left bruised and without recourse. This isn't just unethical — it's cowardly.

The bigger question is: where are our controlling bodies in all of this? Why is it left to individuals to raise concerns or lodge complaints after the damage is already done? It's not good enough. Breed clubs, kennel councils, national organisations — if you're reading this, it's time to stop turning a blind eye and start stepping in. Monitor these groups. Engage. Put real consequences in place for online behaviour that clearly crosses a line. And to those who own and moderate these chat groups: you are not above the law. If you allow defamatory posts to be published under the guise of anonymity, you may be held liable. That's not a threat — it's the law. Defamation in Australia is serious. Just because a statement is posted anonymously doesn't mean it's free from legal scrutiny. If someone's reputation is damaged and there's no truth behind what was said, both the author and the platform that published it may be accountable.

> "The idea of anonymity had merit in theory — allowing people to speak up in spaces where they might otherwise feel silenced. But in practice, it has become a playground for slander, rumour, and cruelty."

I don't write this as a bystander. I write this as someone who has been on the receiving end. Who has watched lies take hold while the person behind them never has to answer for what they've done. It's a helpless and infuriating experience, and I know I'm not alone.

We deserve better than this. Our community deserves better than this. It's time to stop hiding behind anonymity and start remembering the power and the responsibility of our words.

IN BRIEF

DOG OWNERS LESS LIKELY TO DEVELOP DEMENTIA

A new study out of Japan found that dog ownership could play a powerful role in lowering the risk of dementia among older adults.

Researchers observed that individuals over 65 who owned dogs were 40% less likely to develop dementia over a four-year period compared to non-dog owners. The protective effect was even more pronounced—up to 63%—for dog owners who regularly exercised and stayed socially connected.

Interestingly, the study found no significant dementia risk reduction associated with cat ownership. The findings suggest that the active lifestyle and social engagement that often come with caring for a dog may be key factors in preserving cognitive health as people age.

GIARDIA INFECTION COMMON IN YOUNG KENNELED DOGs

Puppies and dogs housed in kennels are 3.4 times as likely to have a giardia infection as older dogs, and dogs with hard stools are less likely to test positive for giardia, according to a study in Comparative Medicine. In the US researchers tested fecal samples from 153 clinically healthy dogs in kennels in Texas and found that 45% tested positive for giardia, while only 7% were positive for cryptosporidium. The report concluded that age and fecal score were important factors for choosing which dogs to screen for subclinical Giardia.

QUIRKY DOGS DRAWING MILLIONS OF FOLLOWERS ON SOCIAL MEDIA

Dogs that look more odd than cute can earn significant revenue from their popularity. A report from the UK says that at a time of heightened social dislocation and loneliness, rising costs and uncertain futures, successful dogfluencers are delivering escapism, absurdity and surrealism. Cloaked in cuteness.

30-YEAR REVIEW OF OVER 11 MILLION DOG REGISTRATIONS IN THE UK

Press Release: The Kennel Club published research on April 17 analysing extensive data from its pedigree records to help breeders to collaboratively protect the future of dog breeds.

The research paper was developed based on a 30-year review of over 11 million dog registrations from The Kennel Club's pedigree database, and has been carried out as part of the organisation's commitment to safeguarding the future of pedigree dogs. The paper is the first in a series of scientific articles, and looks at trends in population sizes, the percentage of dogs used in breeding and their characteristics.

The analysis shows that the overall registered pedigree dog population in the UK is declining in size, with the decline modest, but more pronounced in the last decade. The Kennel Club, which collects dog health data and develops evidence-based tools to help breeders to make responsible, informed decisions, is concerned about this decline and its impacts on the supply of well-bred puppies in the UK. This analysis comes as recent research has also identified the supply of healthy, well-bred puppies in the UK as a major issue in canine health and welfare.

Further, the paper shows that the overall percentage of dogs used in breeding is small. Pedigree dogs are bred selectively for predictable traits, helping potential owners to make informed choices and match a dog's care needs and temperament with their lifestyle.

Thanks to extensive datasets on pedigree dogs and their health, it is now also possible to effectively select against a number of health conditions, with recent research showing that pedigree dogs are as healthy as crossbreeds and live longer on average. However, selection for any trait, even selection for desirable traits like good temperament and health, leads to reduction in genetic diversity, already limited due to all dogs in a breed tracing back to the same 'breed founders'. The rate of loss of genetic diversity must be kept at sustainable levels to avoid population decline – or in extreme cases eventual extinction of breed – so The Kennel Club will use this vital research to work alongside dedicated Breed Health Coordinators to develop balanced strategies to continue to safeguard the future of the UK's 224 pedigree dog breeds.

"Pedigree dogs have many advantages because we know their ancestry and we can better predict the way that they will turn out," comments Charlotte McNamara, Head of Health at The Kennel Club. "This helps us to know how big they will grow, their exercise needs and predict the health problems they might face, and which DNA tests or assessments breeders should make use of before breeding from their dogs. "But it also means that they are more similar to each other genetically, and so we have to consider how breed populations are monitored and managed, as the lower the genetic diversity the greater the risk that new health conditions will begin to surface. This is true across all dogs bred selectively over generations, including the now popular 'designer crossbreeds', which now also have been selectively bred for specific traits across a number of generations.

"We hope this new research, which has been conducted on a huge scale, will help to address the wider issue of the supply of well-bred, healthy puppies in the UK."

Although the analyses revealed some general trends common to pedigree dog breed populations, there were also significant differences between breeds, indicating that any strategies developed to protect dog populations must be tailored to the unique circumstances of each breed.

BRACE YOURSELF

GETTING BACK TO BASICS

By Andrew H. Brace

It's hard to believe but it's four years since I wrote an article in which I pointed out that the fallout of the Covid pandemic was then being felt at every level of society and the world of purebred dogs had been affected as much as, if not more than, any special interest field. Many countries had basically abandoned dog shows for the immediate future whereas the USA and some others were trying hard to schedule events under strict guidelines to maintain interest. Many saw their livelihoods threatened and their social life dramatically curtailed.

With such a patchy covering of shows, league tables and Top Dog competitions had rather taken a back seat and maybe this was no bad thing if the emphasis shifted to what is fundamentally the most important aspect of our sport – THE BREEDS. For many years it seems that the glitz and glamour of the group and Best In Show rings have rather eclipsed the competition which is far more pivotal to any breed's progress and, whilst we all love the theatre and drama of the "big" events, we should never forget the importance of the humble breed ring as this is where breeds can be made or broken.

Some years later my feelings seem as relevant now as then.

I have often referred to the late Raymond Oppenheimer's outlandish theory, frequently voiced by this guru of Bull Terriers and one-time Chairman of the British Kennel Club's Judges Committee. It may sound far-fetched but when you analyse the thinking behind it Raymond's fantasy makes so much sense. He suggested – with his tongue firmly planted in his cheek – that when someone expressed the desire to become a judge, given that they had a solid background in purebred dogs, they should be invited to judge Best In Show. He felt that this assignment would give them the opportunity to select the best of a small number of dogs that would in theory be outstanding specimens. Then, having acquitted themselves satisfactorily in several Best In Show rings the ascendant judge could be invited to judge a group. Here their knowledge would be tested much more intensely but again they should be evaluating the merits of dogs that were of a high standard. Raymond then opined that, given success at group level, a judge could then be entrusted with judging a BREED, because this is the most important job of all, requires the deepest knowledge, and can do the most good – or harm!

> "We hear so much about pizazz and glamour, showmanship and star quality, yet without classic breed type a dog betrays its breed."

Obviously it is hopelessly impractical but there is a logic behind it that bears thinking about.

Group and Best In Show competitions are based on the foundation of breed judging and it is the breed judges who have the task of sorting out an entry of dogs of varying merit, hopefully being ever conscious of the need to reward the dogs who are best positioned to take a breed forward.

To this end it is imperative that breed judges are not only fully acquainted with the words of the relevant Breed Standard but should be aware of the history of the breed – why it was developed and what role it was bred to fulfil. Only when a breed has been fully researched will the Breed Standard actually acquire real meaning. When one appreciates the background of a breed it is far easier to understand why the physical construction is as detailed in the Standard, the necessity for a specific kind of movement and the importance of breed-specific character and temperament. All of these components contribute to BREED TYPE, the first essential in any great show dog. We hear so much about pizazz and glamour, showmanship and star quality, yet without classic breed type a dog betrays its breed.

At the post-pandemic period we had countless breeders and exhibitors who were sitting on puppies that may never have seen the inside of a show ring until they were Juniors or, God forbid, older. As their owners stared lovingly at them on their property, religiously training and grooming, I am sure that, rather than thinking in terms of potential group winners, their first thoughts were then how these dogs would measure up against the new competition produced by other breeders during the same period.

Many breeders had a year away from shows when they have not had the opportunity to look at the competition so there has been no chance to make comparisons. They had been looking at just their own dogs for months on end so the luxury of getting in a competition ring could not come soon enough for them.

When breeders get swept away with the appeal of producing a "big-ring dog" there is often the temptation to get priorities muddled. When it comes to sorting out a litter and determining who is to be the "keeper", are they focussed on breed characteristics or are they sometimes drawn to the "showman"? Of course the master-breeder is always aiming for that magical combination where a hopeful not only fits the Breed Standard to a T but has the temperament to make it a seasoned campaigner. In reality we all know that sometimes compromises have to be made.

That sustained period of isolation also denied breeders the opportunity to invite friends and peers to look over litters on the ground, discuss and exchange opinions as to their puppies' individual merits. No one sets out to be intentionally kennel-blind but enforced detachment from conformation competition did make this a real risk.

So, even though these sentiments grew out of the pandemic, it is perhaps still timely to remind ourselves of the importance of the breed ring and the consequences of our awards. All judges should be determined to seek out the specimen that best serves its breed, now and in the future, and never forget the wording on the award which is simply BEST OF BREED and not BEST BET FOR THE GROUP.

Ever since I became seriously interested in the dog world I have read countless articles, and in latter years online postings, about the quality (or lack thereof) of judging, the age-old specialist versus all-rounder argument and the efficiency of the various judges' training schemes and consequent approval process that exist around the world. The tone of these offerings seems to have changed little with the passage of time.

When I was cutting my teeth at dog shows, spending a lot of my time stewarding at Championship shows because the dogs I started off with weren't really top quality, consequently I was fortunate to work with some of the leading all-rounders of the day. These were people of the stockman mentality and their judging careers had not resulted from a few brief years of ticking boxes. Looking back I believe that most of these characters had a thorough understanding of canine anatomy and movement but they were also well acquainted with the most important characteristics of all the breeds they judged, those "must haves" that so contributed to establishing Breed Type.

> "All judges should be determined to seek out the specimen that best serves its breed, now and in the future, and never forget the wording on the award which is simply BEST OF BREED and not BEST BET FOR THE GROUP."

I sometimes feel that many of the new generation of "all-rounders" (who would be more accurately described as "multi-breed judges") have been schooled in basic construction but when they get in the centre of the ring their decisions seem to be influenced more by "flash and dash" than by those subtle breed points that the purist would consider essential.

I often wonder if the whole judging system was changed so that the only competition was that in the breed ring, would the decisions of some of these judges be rather different when all they had to think about was THE BREED, with no thought of which dog would stand the best chance of appearing later on the big-room podium, giving them another photo-op that they can plaster all over Facebook?!

A point to ponder.

Living With A Terrier

LIVING WITH A TERRIER

Terriers have character all of their own! This is instinctive behaviour that has been developed over centuries and gives terriers their unique personality. Once understood and respected, terriers make great companions and adapt superbly to modern society. But a terrier requires a firm hand and must be taught exactly what is expected of him. Here are some general guidelines.

EXERCISING

Terriers have lots of energy and a show judge expects them to be 'on the tiptoe of expectation'. Bred to follow vermin beneath the ground and bark once it is found, leaves us with aspects of Terrier behaviour which could become a problem in modern society. But terriers are also clever. Because they learn fast, below are 3 organised disciplines which suit terriers' natural instincts and can satisfy them in ways that both you and your terrier can understand and enjoy.

FLYBALL

Flyball is relay race between 2 or more teams of 4 dogs each. Every dog must jump over 4 hurdles, retrieve a ball by triggering a flyball box pedal and then return over the hurdles to the start/finish line. It is great fun for both you and your terrier. But because terriers are not natural retrievers, when training your terrier if you reward him with a treat every time he brings the ball back to you, he will soon learn. You would doubtless enjoy the spectacle and comradeship of barracking for your terrier and his team as they race.

EARTHDOG TESTS

Another organised activity in which the smaller breeds of terriers love to participate is 'Earthdog'. Here terriers are encouraged to follow scent through artificial man-made underground tunnels of increasing difficulty. A series of tests assesses the terrier's instincts to follow scent by running through tunnels leading to the quarry. Once they have found it, they must bark, dig, growl, or signal the find in some other way. Passing Earthdog tests mean the terrier can earn titles!

LURE RACING

Racing one dog against another has been popular since the mid-1800's. Historically knock-out competitions in which 2 Sight Hounds at a time competed, led to the modern sport of Greyhound Racing[1].

The modern activity Lure Racing is quite different. Usually run over a straight, flat course of around 80 to 100 meters, 4 terriers or small dogs race in series of a knock-out heats. The final race declares an ultimate winner. More advanced courses can include hurdle races and water jumps. The actual lure is a moving object or toy, dragged along by a rope.

In Victoria there are different competitions, with eligibility determined by height at shoulder. 'Starting' boxes are used to co-ordinate the start of each race. This ensures all 4 competing dogs begin simultaneously. As all terriers love to run flat out and chase, this is a yet another fun activity you can enjoy with your terrier.

PASSIVE RECREATION

Terriers will usually happily run around, chase birds, play and dig in the area allocated to them. But if you are garden conscious, giving your terrier its own area should mean it leaves your precious garden alone. But the terrier's area must have secure boundaries which means he cannot dig under, jump over, or fit through gaps in the wire or within wooden fences, or gate fittings.

Excessive energy can be burnt off by putting aside time each day to take your terrier for a walk. If you live in suburbia, there are usually local laws governing the use of public open spaces, particularly beaches. Pestering you for a daily walk can motivate you to increase your present level of activity and at the same time calm your mind. Dog owners talk to other dog owners they meet. So, a serious commitment to a daily walk can be just as beneficial and enjoyable for you as it is for your dog!

TERRIERS WITH SMALL CHILDREN

A child raised with a loving companion dog in their life should be a pleasurable experience for both the child and the dog. A child who grows up without having an animal friend misses an essential lifetime experience. From the day the dog is introduced into the house, adult supervision is essential. This is because dogs are pack animals and dogs sometimes try to dominate children, treating them like another dog. As this could mean a bite, it is important that an adult remains in control at all times. Then the dog learns to respect the child and play their games, like the Bull Terrier.

Here we have a wonderful example of a lasting positive experience a dog can give a small child. Norwich Terriers love children. This Champion Norwich

Terrier is part of a reading assistance programme run by the local library in Ashburton, in the Canterbury Region of the South Island of New Zealand. This gorgeous little dog is trained to sit patiently and listen attentively while children, one at a time, read it a story. What an amazing experience for all the small children this dog meets!

HANDLING

With Peter Frost

When your dog defies you, NEVER GIVE UP

When handling dogs and you are challenged, never give up.

It is amazing how many handlers give up too soon when requesting a task from a dog and it resists. Had they known that maybe one more signal would have allowed their request, they would not have stopped so prematurely.

My long experience with this situation has convinced me that we (humans) do not know how many times we have to repeat the instruction before the dog gives in to our higher status when our hierarchical position is challenged.

So, the time frame should never be on our terms, only a commitment that when challenged, we will never give up, no matter how many repeats of the same signal our dogs necessitate.

This philosophy completely contradicts what has been instructed in the past, especially by those who instructed the old obedience training methods. While believers may ridicule negation of long-time beliefs, BUT my learnt practical philosophy works a treat.

Why is the never give up attitude in conflict of other dog handling training methods?

Well other line of thinking, believes that if the dog has not responded positively to the request immediately (first up) then a physical correction is given in the understanding that the dog is in defiance of the handlers instruction (naughty, wilful or belligerent) therefore cannot be allowed to get away with "it" and must be acted upon immediately, this is misguided in my opinion and nearly the worst thing you can do.

To start with, I do not believe that a dog's have a naughty, wilful or belligerent bone in their body, so this sets the total philosophical approach I have to handling dogs (of any breed) successfully.

Dogs are pack animals; they have evolved from the wolf and still have the natural instincts of the wolf and the leader of the pack, who attains and holds the position is because it's the one who never gives up, controls the packs total being.

The TOP DOG is constantly challenged by others in the pack to ascertain its will to the continuance of authority and guidance, so to them (dogs) it is life and death decision making if the leader relinquishes its position and does not pass the challenge/s and therefore they must takeover.

Now our dog is making the decisions when we do not pass the challenges (tests) then the dog just does what it wants.

Keep in mind that a TOP DOG is the one who never gives up. So, when a handler directs a dog to complete a task and the dog resists, if the handler changes the request or gives up completely, they lose and instate the dog as the leader. But if the handler had persisted, the dog would concede, complete the given task, and maintain the hierarchical status.

Now here is the best bit, even if the original task request was challenged, by five, ten or even twenty times (and I have had more) but the handler does not give up and the dog completes the requested task eventually – the next time it maybe two or three challenges (usually nowhere near as vigorously) AND – the next time, one or no challenges.

A dog being stacked moves its foot, put it back, moves it again, put it back and if you are consistent with the signal and persistent, the dog will give up and you win. Next time this same task is asked for, it will be instantaneous.

When coaching my TOP DOG handling philosophy and with my dogs, I have applied this philosophy and have had successful outcomes repeatedly.

This has nothing to do with physical strength but all to do with mental will.

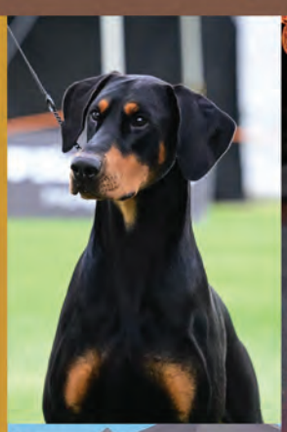

TOP DOG is a state of mind and patience is a virtue.

Its an exciting season for dog sports and conformation events across Australia, four-legged champions and their dedicated handlers continue to shine in the spotlight across South Australia. From prestigious Best in Show wins to history-making titles in emerging sports, the achievements of dogs and their humans are truly worth celebrating.

The fast-growing sport of SprintDog™ is racing ahead, with South Australia joining the sprint revolution. March saw a standout moment when Janet Rainey's sheltie, Myf (Neut Ch Majikblu Key to MyHeart N.SPRD RN HT), became the first Shetland Sheepdog in Australia to gain the Novice Sprint Dog title. A milestone achievement, Myf is sure to inspire more shelties to hit the sprint track.

Meanwhile, Ashleigh Divola proudly presented South Australia's first Novice SprintDog™ titled Italian Greyhounds: Neut Ch Kosmos The Flying Dutchman N.SPRD and Ch Kosmos Argyle Diamond N.SPRD.

Congratulations to all who received their titles at these recent events!

Primochi Bruce Almighty earned Puppy in Group and three Reserve Challenge awards. Primogriff Lil Firecracker took Baby in Group. Grand Ch Tenayshus Doras Gidget was awarded Best Exhibit in Group under judge Linda Stevens (ACT), along with two Australian Bred in Group wins.

Julie Burbridge's young English Cocker Spaniel Henry (Ashmere He's A Good Un) impressed with a 12-point Best of Breed and Puppy in Group two weeks ago—clearly a rising star to watch.

Looking ahead, South Australia is gearing up for one of the most anticipated weekends on the canine calendar: the Dogs SA Winter International. Set to unfold over five spectacular days, this event kicks off with the first-ever Dogs SA Grooming Competition—highlighting the skill and artistry of professional grooming—followed by four action-packed days of conformation shows, both all-breeds and specialty club level. This much-loved event brings together friends and competitors from all over the country, and for many, it's a highlight of the year.

Whether you're exhibiting, stewarding, grooming, judging, or just cheering from the sidelines, here's to a successful and joy-filled weekend for all. See you at the ringside!

The curious and independent Schipperke originated from the Flemish areas of Belgium. Derived from the black sheepdog called the Leauvenaar he is an excellent watchdog and vermin hunter. His small cobby body is characterised by his unique coat which must display different lengths in a specific pattern of short on face, ears, hocks and forelegs, medium on body and longer at ruff, cape, jabot and culottes. This differentiation in coat lengths is a breed hallmark.

The hair should be abundant, straight and a fairly harsh texture and the coat should lie flat down the middle of the back.

This distinct silhouette of the Schipperke with its stand up ruff appears to slope from the shoulders to the croup and as our quest is always to have the dog fit the ideal silhouette, it is paramount that we achieve this through our bathing and drying process as trimming is disallowed in this breed.

The Schipperke coat colour is black with some tendency when shedding to acquire a reddish hue which though recognised, is penalised in degree to its detraction. Thus the outcome for our endeavours should be to minimise any reddening and always accentuate the ideal outline.

Starting with the bathing, use Plush Puppy Body Building Shampoo diluted 5:1 (5 parts water to 1 part shampoo) for extra lift to those areas of the main body coat and wonderful for those times of shedding to bulk up the coat.

Grooming with Plush Puppy

Use Plush Puppy All Purpose Shampoo diluted 5:1 for shine on the topline and where the coat is required to sit flat.

When the Schipperke coat acquires a reddish hue, use Plush Puppy Black Opal Shampoo lightly diluted ½ water and ½ shampoo. This is a staining shampoo and not a dye. It will deepen in colour the more it is used. As it's prime aim is to reduce red and enhance the black, you can accelerate the process by shampooing first with Plush Puppy All Purpose Shampoo diluted 5:1 and towel dry well after rinsing BEFORE doing the second shampoo with the Black Opal. Leave Black Opal on for 5 minutes for better staining and then rinse.

All the shampoos are naturally derived and are direct outcome focused. They do much more than just cleanse and with your quest to gain the perfect silhouette without trimming, you are attempting to sculpture through other means and in this case, with the products we use. The shampoos are very much oriented in this direction.

Now don't use conditioner. That will simply flatten the coat but could be useful on the topline if this is an area that won't sit flat. View the products as tools to achieve your ideal! However we do need to hydrate the coat and keep the moisture content in the hair so for final rinse implement one teaspoon Plush Puppy Seabreeze Oil with 1 litre warm water and thoroughly saturate the coat with a decent sized sponge to work the mix well through to the skin. Leave in and don't rinse out. This dilution will work well and give good healthy vigour to the skin and coat. It is just the most amazing product and one we all cannot live without. It will allow you to retain texture, won't soften but will give the coat all the benefits it needs for longevity and shine.

For out of coat situations, add 1 teaspoon Plush Puppy Volumising Cream into the Seabreeze Oil mix and leave in just as described above. This is a non sticky bulking agent that appears to make the coat look fuller. It is not detectable in the coat and is quite a favourite with all the double coated breeds people. We often find people using this even when the coat is at it's peak as they just like that extra lift and fullness it gives.

For normal situations use 1 tbspn Volumising Cream to one cup warm water and apply liberally around the ruff area for extra fullness to tweak the shape.

Thus, extra lift at the ruff, the All Purpose Shampoo used to keep the topline smooth and the Body Building Shampoo to give maximum fullness to the main coat. It really is quite simple!

Now blow dry using a cool turbo dryer using the Plush Puppy Ultimate Pin Brush starting at the rear and working through to the front and drying at the root for full lift against the growth of the coat for those maximum lift areas and with the growth of the coat minimising any lift to those areas required to sit flat. Once the coat is 75% dry, switch to the ½ bristle ½ nylon cushioned Plush Puppy Ultimate Porcupine Brush for final finish. I personally like to use the heel of my hand to work the coat open when drying and pushing the coat to where I want it to go. It's a choice!

For show day it ought to be a breeze as your hard work has been done prior to the show. It should mean quite literally a quick brush through using a diluted mix of Plush Puppy OMG Concentrate diluted at 30:1 in a 250ml Plush Puppy Spray bottle for all your brushing needs. OMG is one of those special products that you can tailor to suit the individual coat by less or more dilution. 30:1 is the one I like to work with on this type of coat. There is no residue and the brush will glide through. One ought not to brush a dry coat. Look after your coats and the results will be worthwhile.

I do believe in between show maintenance being the mainstay of longevity and perfection to the Schipperke coat. Live by the rule that the harder your work between times means the less you work at the show. Treat the coat every couple of weeks with a slathering of Plush Puppy Coat Rescue worked to a watery slurry with some water and sloshed onto the coat. This has everything known to man in the formula and is just amazing for pushing that bit extra into the coat. Oil your coats with Seabreeze Oil and then a regular treatment of Coat Rescue and you will have perfection every time.

Black needs to be black and any dehydration, any sun damage, any over stretching or breakage will hasten the loss of coat colour and condition. Protect, oil, treat and do it religiously. It must be routine. There is a lot of emphasis in your standard on the coat so judges will focus on this aspect a lot.

Of course he must be able to do his job of vermin catcher and watchdog and his lovely smooth graceful trot is a pleasure to view in the ring. The Schipperke is curious and agile and his fox like face and mischievous nature make him an engaging competitor.

The Schipperke is a terrific little breed to show and an easy one to put together if you are prepared to just do the repetitious work of keeping the coat in A1 condition.

It's easy to shape without trimming and a good working little specimen of this breed is pretty hard to go past.

As Easter and ANZAC Day are behind us, we are now thinking about tax returns and mid year sales. Winter is meant to be heading our way but with temperatures still in the 30s, little rain and not a lot happening on the show scene on this side of the country during that holiday period, it would not be surprising if some exhibitors put on their gardening gloves and headed outdoors. There were all breeds shows the first weekend in April and then nothing again in the way of an all breeds event until the end of the month. Gone are the days of exhibitors packing up their dogs and heading en masse to the east coast for the Sydney Royal and specialties. We now only have a handful of representatives doing that and trust me, they are not the people who own a brachy breed (or have their breed designated "brachy", on the airlines' list). Flight costs are just too prohibitive and the drive across the Nullabor, isn't a trip everyone wants to take, especially with dogs and perhaps, kids as well, in tow. Negativity, or rather reality, aside, the glorious weather has meant we have not been subjected to the noise and hard concrete under the pavilion yet. Let's celebrate that win!

April kicked off with The All Breeds Dog Club running shows with local judges over both days of the first weekend. Jenny Sayers judged General Specials on the Saturday, awarding Best In Show to Pam Campbell and Steve Warry's Whippet, Sup Ch Harroway Sublime, sent through by Liz Walmsley. Runner Up went to Ashlea Stanton and Julie Harris' Shetland Sheepdog, Sup Ch Kilwarrin Playing On. Special mention needs to be made of Steph Reynold's Baby Boxer, Chelleason Causin Passion , taking out Baby In Show at a debut outing and the lovely Tibetan Terrier, Tibetoes Walk On The Wild Side who had notched up 4 x Baby in Group awards , adding 3 x Best Minor Puppy in Group and at that show, also Minor Puppy In Show. I believe he is already way past the halfway mark to his title. Sharon Pratt is having a great time showing this youngster, bred by Pamela Ellis in Sydney. The following day, Roni Oma selected the Italian Greyhound, Piccino Scarborough Fair with Jeni Sach. The Lhasa Apso, Grd Ch Sooquan Wildest Dreams, sent through by Jenny Sayers, picked up the Runner Up Best In Show.

The following weeks saw some breed and group or multi breed shows with the Hound Club attracting a very good entry for Hound specialist Bev Tophill from Victoria. Best In Show was the Afghan, UK Ch, Sup Ch Aviva Vampire Tetra (AI) owned by Andrea Lewis with breeders Peter and Ros Bacich. Winston became a bit of a cult figure when Andrea took him to the UK and from the other side of the world, we watched him on Youtube, taking on star status at Crufts as well as his other breed victories, to achieve his UK title. This dog had everyone "at hello", walking into a Western Classic group win as a youngster when he first arrived in the state. He is a testimony not only to the dedication his co owner and handler, Andrea, has put in, but also a lifelong affinity and passion for the breed by Aviva Afghans. The win would have been even sweeter in knowing that Bev Tophill had started her hound journey over 50 years ago in the UK before moving to Australia, with none other than the Afghan . Runner Up at the Club show was awarded to Jo Kramer's Whippet bitch, Sup Ch Arjai Heart Of Glass.

The following weekend, the Spitz

Dog Club of WA conducted their Championship Show with local All Breeds judge, Olga Meyer, presiding over the event. Best In Show was awarded to Kris and Jordan Black's Siberian Husky, Ch Inuusik About Damn Time. Runner Up was the popular Samoyed Ch Lunasea Why So Serious JC owned by Helen Chen but shown here by Chelsea Wiles.

It was a very productive day for mother and daughter, Kris and Jordan, with their Shiba Inu Ch Kaikatsu Watashiwomite also being awarded Best Puppy In Show.

The end of the month saw the return of some all breeds Championship Shows for the Metropolitan Kennel Club's ANZAC Day weekend. On the Saturday show, Peter Martin (SA) awarded the Afghan , Lewis and Bacich's UK Ch/Aust Sup Ch Aviva Vampire Tetra (AI)

Best in Show. Runner Up went to Wilkes and Clarke's American Cocker

Spaniel, Am Ch ,Can Ch, Sup Ch Mar-K N Staryanks Time To Dream.

The following day, Rosemary Weaver (NZ) as Best In Show judge, again selected the Afghan Hound for the top honour. Runner Up Best in Show went to the Lakeland, Eva Fekete's Ch Kineta Rocketman. The afternoon featured a set of group shows; a first for us but a good idea to facilitate a reasonable get away time for exhibitors who travel some distance as well as those that have work commitments on the following day.

If we go back to that Easter break when we had no shows here, it did give some people a lazy opportunity to sit in front of the screen and catch up with friends and dogs at the Sydney Royal or specialties. How proud were we , in listening to the commentary about that fabulously groomed little white Toy Poodle, Ch, Neut Ch Pudelian Bit Ofluff On Thside At Firezeye, bred by Anne Howell and handled by Char Janz.

The pair were "celebrities", winning Best Neuter in Group under Svante Fiske (Sweden). The camera just loved them on the live feed.

It was also great to see Debbie Wilke's homebred American Cocker, Sup Ch Staryanks Written Nth Stars owned with Paige and Mark Clarke, winning the Gundog Group at both the Sydney

In Western Australia

Royal Easter Show and the Sydney FCI International show. Congratulations on your recognition at such a prestigious and highly competitive event.

Finally, a couple of farewells; the first to Keira Croker who heads off to training in Wagga Wagga, for a career in the Royal Australian Air Force. Keira has grown up before our eyes, a talented Junior Handler and always, like her parents, ready to lend a hand and step up to help out with shows . Keira's affinity with all sorts of breeds saw her win many a Junior Handler heat as well as wins in the conformation shows. The St John suits will have to be shelved for her service uniform but I feel quite sure we will see her back in the ring sometime in the future. Have the best of times in your new venture, Keira.

Another farewell of a different nature is a final goodbye to Ron Wells who passed away towards the end of April. Ron had a "good innings" and we were so very fortunate that so much of his time had been spent in the service of Dogs West; a dedicated volunteer, steward and Chief Steward for many years at shows at Dogs West as well as the Perth Royal, where Ron and his "side kick", Wally Cook, kept the rings running like a well oiled machine. He was also the man behind the bar upstairs, a husband of many years to Delia, father and friend, especially to Wally and Sheryl Cook and their daughters. In a world where so many people put themselves first, we were so lucky, he chose to give his time so generously to us, the members of Dogs West. Rest in Peace, Ron.

Now Renay interviews well known Southern Region All Breeds Judge & Whippet Breeder Bev Daines

Where were you born?

I was born in Manly, Sydney and spent my early years living in North Balgowlah before moving to Kenthurst on acreage to accommodate the increasing number of dogs!

Where do you live?

I now live in Wagga Wagga, the largest inland city in NSW.

What do you love about the Region you live in?

Wagga Wagga has everything that is available in our capital cities with the added bonus of being relatively peaceful, less stressful and cheaper in most respects.

You've Judged last month in The Southern Region? What do you think of it?

In the Southern Region we have many reputable breeders who consistently produce top dogs capable of winning the highest awards anywhere not only at our local shows.

The weather?

Like anywhere, the weather is variable so I always tell visitors to come prepared for anything from very hot to very cold. I love our clear night skies something you don't always experience in the big cities.

Have you visited this Region before?

As a child we often came to Wagga for holidays as we had relatives here. In school holidays we'd often do the dog shows in the area.

What bought you into the Dog World?

Our first pedigree dog was a Dachshund gifted to us by American friends who were returning home and couldn't take the dog with them. One day there was a dog show at our local oval. We went for a look and that was it…….. I had to get a show dog!

What does your family think about you being in the Dog World?

My family has always been supportive. I remember when I got my first whippet, my dad didn't believe it was a real dog but he soon fell in love with the breed.

What Breed of Dog/s do you own? How Many? Names? Ages?

My first breed was Standard Smooth Dachshunds. I also had Miniature Longs but my current breed is whippets I bred my first whippet litter in 1971. I currently have six girls ranging in age from 14 years to 8 months.

What is your grooming product/ item ride or die thing you cannot live without?

My dogs are bathed with Sunlight soap and rinsed in water with a few drops of Bluo. I also use Plush Puppy shampoo and conditioner.

How long have been Judging for?

I gained my Hound licence in 1971 then because of my job didn't do my second group, Gundogs , till 1986. Then I became School Principal so again there was a break but I was determined I would be All Breeds before I retired. So in 2001, the year I retired, I became All Breeds. So to answer your question I have been judging for 54 years!

What are your must haves when travelling while Judging?

Rain gear, sun hat and sun screen, credit card, book to read and my phone.

If you could choose to own another breed what would it be and why?

There are many breeds I love but whippets and dachshunds are my first loves.

Is there a favourite show you Judged in Australia? When? If so why?

I enjoy all my judging appointments. I have always been well looked after by each club and enjoy the comerarderie between judges.

Overseas? When? If so why?

I have judged in many overseas countries and loved every experience. If I really had to choose one, I guess I would say the Prague Expo simply because of the size of the show, the venue, the number of judges many who only judged one breed over the three days, the number of dogs I'd never seen or even heard of, and the friendliness of the exhibitors towards each other. Judging Best in Show there was an amazing experience!

Favourite/s thing to do when not Judging?

I enjoy my garden, I love reading sometimes two books a week, and when I was younger I lived on the tennis court!

What is the farthest you've travelled to Judge at a Show?

All overseas appointments are a long way but I usually make a holiday of it.

Best Sportsmanship you've seen in the ring?

Funniest thing you've experienced Judging?

Having my fingers caught in knots in a dog's undercoat which resulted in a long examination of the rib cage as I struggled to free myself! Bev Daines

Far North Queensland

• With Amanda Maynard

Some sad news to start with unfortunately, with the show community rocked by the sudden loss of Lynda Trotter this past month, our thoughts and love go out to her friends and family during this difficult time.

Show season is still reasonably new in NQ, with only a few months of shows currently being held in in the zone, and although the weather has played havoc, we had had some great weather weekends so far.

Burdekin Kennel Club had secured the amazing facility of the Ayr Showgrounds indoor pavilion and hosted a 4 show cluster using the incredible indoor space. Whilst Bowen Kennel club had to postpone their shows only the weekend before, the Ayr Showgrounds offered a great weekend of shows despite the somewhat rain logged grounds on the outside. The facility was first class, and the committee worked with exhibitors as the weekend unfolded to move exhibitors inside and reduce the amount of necessary gazebos outside. Although dog friendly accommodation proved slightly problematic in the region, many opted to stay in Townsville to ensure they were still able to attend the shows. The committee will be working with Ayr council for further shows to expand the availability of caravan and camping allowed at the ground, impacted this time by the rain logged grounds leading up to the weekend. The indoor facilities proved an enticing draw card, with many from Brisbane making the trek up to check out the indoor rings. The WA panel all took Delacourt and Hatzikiriakos's Basenji Sup Ch Glamcurls Champagne Cartel as BIS, with Jeni Sach awarding Sheild's Scottish Terrier Ch A2O Ch Upyrkilt Go for Gold as RIS. Saturday PM saw Heather Jones award Reading and Graham's foxie Clayco the Marvel as BIS, where Saturday PM and Sunday's show under Jenny Sayers and Coral Gray both selected the Dalmatian owned by Gough and Chandler Ch Winterfalls Rising Sun as their RIS winner.

The attention of the zone then turned to the Easter cluster, where

Ingham and Cloncurry join forces to host a six show weekend. Many were interested to see how Ingham had fared about the localised flooding, and although there was evidence of incredibly high water marks on fences, the grounds were as always pristine. The large tree, that used to provide shade for heaps of campers, was however no longer and had to be removed to allow the exhibitors to use the usual road in. A massive shame to lose such a key part of the ground's history. Cathy Camac- at the first show, awarded her BIS to the Basenji Sup Ch Wuliango Dakota Rain Dance owned by Marsden and Blair, with RIS to the big hon Ch Daejilon Lightning Jack owned by Waszkiewicz. Mr Beckett

(NT) also took the Basenji as his BIS winner with RIS going to the Dogue Ch Northernstarr The Big show owned by Taylor. On Saturday, Tim Thomas made half the assembly cry with pride as Sophie Keedle handled Chris Coggan's Italian Greyhound Tunamara Velveteern Queen at Utah (AI) to BIS with RIS being presented to the Neo Sup Ch Shazza Del Grande Fiume-Manicomio (IMP USA). Peter Martin then presented his BIS to the Schnauzer Ch Regenstauf Lipsmackin Legacy owned by Cox, with RIS going to the Reading and Graham's F)oxie Clayco The Marvel. On Sunday, Stacey Sewell awarded her BIS to the Basenji of Marsden and Blair's, with RIS being awarded to the Dalmatian owned by Gough and Chandler Ch Winterfalls Rising Sun. Monica McCaffery (SA) then judged the last General Specials of the cluster, with the neo taking BIS and the pointer Ch Pinerock Really Truly of Panoply (Imp NZ) as her RIS winner. I have to say though, the highlight of the weekend was watching poor Tim Thomas having to judge the amazing line up of children and dogs in the Easter Bonnet Parade. I think he may have done some creative announcements of winners, but luckily everyone managed a win in a category! Always a great weekend of chocolate and good times.

Whilst Pioneer Valley doesn't technically fall into my 'region' to write about, I would be absolutely remiss to not let everyone know of the absolute jewell in the crown of the zone 3/2 area. This location is an absolute must for anyone who can make it- with a gorgeous river running ringside, pristine rings and a small but willing committee keen to make exhibitors welcome and happy. I only made a whirlwind stop to the location and only snuck in 2 of their 4 shows but can say this grounds and this club are a must do! On the Friday in between ANZAC celebrations from the small town, the pub throwing open its door to the exhibitors and the grounds man dolling out the wifi codes BIS was judged by a somewhat delayed (thanks cancelled flights!) Dianne Wright who awarded her BIS to the Dalmatian owned by Gough and Chandler Ch Winterfalls Rising Sun with RIS going to the bearded collie

inglen Beoyndthelookingglass (AI) as BIS, with the neo Sup Ch Shazza Del Grande Fiume Manicomio (IMP USA) owned by Mulkhollad as RIS. At the afternoon show, the neo moved to the top spot with RIS going to the Lahsa Ch Jennie Rock 'Em and Sock 'Em owned by Elms. Sunday's show saw David Kill award his BIS to Alice the Bearded Collie, with the Boston Terrier Ch Libertybos Anaya take RIS.

The show season is well and truly ramping up with most weekends having shows on the zone 3 calendar- it will stay this way until about august when we take a break for the EKKA, but then- hurrah- Ag show season starts! Don't forget those rain boots, it will be more of the same over at show season as what we have had so far- mud rain and BOM weather obsessions!

Its time to get the State of Origin gear out of the cupboard as we eagerley look forward to another opprotunity to beat NSW - Go Queenslander!

The 2025 ADVANCE Sydney Royal Dog Show

12th - 21st April 2025 • Best in Show Judge Mr Ricardo Torre Simoes (Brazil)

Photography by
Ingrid Matschke Photography

The 2025 ADVANCE Sydney Royal Dog Show this year was an outstanding success. Entries were up 11% on 2024, bucking the trend of conformation dog shows in Australia this year.

For the first time an FCI show was held in conjunction with the Royal Show and the Sydney FCI International as it was named, turned out to be the largest FCI show ever held in Australia to date with just under 1700 entries.

The judges for this year were Ricardo Torre Simoes form Brazil, Bianca Teixeira also from Brazil, Svante Frisk from Sweden and Jacson Kimber from South Korea.

The judges had their work cut out for them and together with our great group of stewards, headed up by Wayne Scott, set about the task at hand in a professional manner, sorting through well over 4,000 entries over 9 days of breed judging.

Best in Show day had a supercharged atmosphere and this year started with Best in Show for the FCI show. Group specials had been run daily for this show, so only the Best in Groups, Best Baby Puppies and Best Puppies were needed back for the final judging.

Mrs Svante Frisk was in charge of proceedings here and he chose the well performed German Shorthaired Pointer AM Ch Sup Ch A2O Ch CIB Vjk-Myst Journey Downunder (Imp USA) for his Best in Show.

Best in Show 2nd went to the Whippet Sup Ch Ridgesetter Where The Boyz Are.

Following the completion of the historic FCI show it was full steam ahead into the ADVANCE Sydney Royal Dog Show.

As we worked our way through the groups, the crowd continued to build until there was standing room only when the Best in Show judge Ricardo Torre Simoes was escorted into the ring by young Rose Hogan.

The atmosphere was just fantastic as the crowd cheered for their favourites and eventually the Standard Poodle, piloted by James Bennett, Sup Ch A2O Ch Voila Raising The Stakes(Ai) was crowned Best in Show.

Runner Up for this year went to the Bedlington Terrier handled by Kimberley Robinson Ch Breckland Blame It On The Rain.

The usual media frenzy erupted on the lawns immediately following Best in Show which saw segments on all three major television network news programs that night, showcasing our wonderful purebred dogs as only Sydney Royal can do.
